

(Un)Silencing the Past Memorializing Historical Traumas: Nazi Germany and the Jim Crow South

Monday, November 6, 2017

6:00 p.m. CT

Rosa Parks Museum
Auditorium
Troy University
252 Montgomery St.
Montgomery, Alabama

CO-ORGANIZED BY

TROY
UNIVERSITY™

This program is free and open to the public, but registration is requested at ushmm.org/events/troy-university.

*Co-organized by Troy University. This program is made possible by the Campus Outreach Lecture
Program of the USHMM Jack, Joseph & Morton
Mandel Center for Advanced Holocaust Studies, supported by Alan Solomon.*

For more information contact:

Dr. Jake Newsome (jnewsome@ushmm.org)

Dr. Dan Puckett (dpuckett45442@troy.edu)

ushmm.org/connect

IN THIS ROUNDTABLE DISCUSSION, students, scholars, and the campus community will explore the lasting impact of targeted oppression and racial violence on memory and identity for communities in two historical contexts.

SPEAKERS

EVAN MILLIGAN

Equal Justice Initiative

Lynching and Public Violence in America

JAKE NEWSOME

United States Holocaust Memorial Museum

*Memory and the Burden of Silence for the Nazis'
Gay Victims*

KENNETH NOE

Auburn University

Confederate Memorials and Historical Memory

DAN J. PUCKETT

Troy University

Reporting on the Holocaust from Jim Crow Alabama

MODERATOR

RANDALL WILLIAMS

NewSouth Books

Above: The 14th Street entrance of the United States Holocaust Memorial Museum. Amy Donovan, US Holocaust Memorial Museum.

UNITED STATES
HOLOCAUST
MEMORIAL
MUSEUM 2018 25

JACK, JOSEPH AND MORTON MANDEL
CENTER FOR ADVANCED HOLOCAUST STUDIES

NEVER AGAIN
WHAT YOU DO MATTERS

THE CAMPAIGN
ushmm.org/campaign