UNITED STATES HOLOCAUST MEMORIAL MUSEUM 2021-22 ANNUAL REPORT

ON THE COVER: Supporters who attended Museum events around the country this year encountered these words. They learned about how the Museum is reaching a global audience—especially young people—to inspire critical thinking about Holocaust history and the ability of individuals to shape the future. Together, we can ensure that the lessons of the Holocaust continue to inspire individuals and leaders worldwide to confront antisemitism and hatred, prevent genocide, and promote human dignity.

Dear Friends,

The Museum approaches its 30th anniversary next year with a sense of pride and urgency. Thanks to your support, over three decades, we helped put the Holocaust back on the world's agenda, advancing its legitimacy and importance for the future. But now, rising antisemitism and Holocaust denial, distortion, and ignorance make our work more necessary and more challenging than ever. Antisemitism on both the far right and the far left is increasing. Conspiracy theories and extremist ideologies proliferate on social media. And Russia egregiously misappropriated Holocaust history in its unprovoked, horrific war against Ukraine that has put Holocaust survivors, Holocaust documentation, and those who teach and study this history at grave risk.

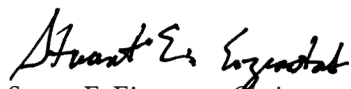

We responded by doing all we can to preserve the history of the Holocaust in Ukraine, where 1.5 million Jews were murdered and where 10,000 survivors are at risk, as they were in their youth. We created a new fund to support the continued research and teaching of our Ukrainian partners and made digitizing our 16 million pages of Ukrainian archives that we collected over 25 years a priority—the first million are now online.

Ensuring the relevance of the Holocaust to new generations is at the heart of our work. This year, almost 3,000 worldwide attended our virtual Arthur and Rochelle Belfer National Conference for Educators. Our curricular resources are used by thousands of teachers and local Holocaust centers across the country. Our exhibition Americans and the Holocaust is touring the nation in partnership with the American Library Association. In the coming years, it will reach 100 communities with little access to Holocaust education. It was also the inspiration for a documentary by Ken Burns that will air in September.

We have been aggressively building our audiences across social media platforms through thought-provoking storytelling. By reaching diverse audiences where they are, we capitalize on topics already in the public discourse to create “teachable moments” linking to our online educational resources. Our posts were seen more than 306 million times last year. We continue to hold special programs for FBI agents, law enforcement officers, and our military academies focused on the role these professions played in Nazi-dominated Europe. A steady stream of world leaders keep visiting for special tours. Secretary of State Anthony Blinken recently toured our exhibition on Burma and used the Museum's moral platform to make a formal declaration that genocide had been perpetrated by the Burmese military against the Rohingya, with Rohingya community leaders present.

In a constantly changing world, we will not waiver in our commitment to the importance of the history and lessons of the Holocaust. That's why “what you do matters.”

Thank you,

Stuart E. Eizenstat, Chairman

Allan M. Holt, Vice Chairman

Sara J. Bloomfield, Director
